AMERICAN INDIAN LANGUAGE GROUPS

American Indians were the first people who lived in Virginia.

American Indians lived in all areas of the state.

There were three major American Indian language groups in Virginia.

Christopher Columbus called the people he found in the lands he explored “Indians” because he thought he was in the Indies (near China)

Artifacts such as arrowheads, pottery, and other tools that have been found tell a lot about the people who lived in Virginia.

American Indian identities have always been closely connected to the land. American Indians did not believe in land ownership.

Three major language groups

• Algonquian languages were spoken primarily in the Tidewater region; the Powhatan were a part of this group.

• Siouan languages were spoken primarily in the Piedmont region – the Monacan were part of this group.

• Iroquoian languages were spoken in Southwestern Virginia and in Southern Virginia near what is today North Carolina; the Cherokee were a part of this group.

EVIDENCE AT WEROWOCOMOCO & JAMESTOWN

Archaeology is another way that helps people understand the past.

Recent archaeological digs have recovered new material evidence about Werowocomoco and historic Jamestown.

Archaeologists study all kinds of material evidence left from people of the past.

Virginia Indian cultures have changed over time.

Climate in Virginia

• The climate in Virginia is relatively mild with distinct seasons—spring, summer, fall, and winter—resulting in a variety of vegetation.

• Forests, which have a variety of trees, cover most of the land. Virginia’s American Indians are referred to as Eastern Woodland Indians.

Environmental Connections

The kinds of food American Indians ate, the clothing they wore, and the shelters they had depended upon the seasons.

• Foods changed with the seasons.

• In winter, they hunted birds and animals and lived on foods stored the previous fall.

• In spring, they hunted, fished and picked berries.

• In summer, they grew crops (beans, corn, squash).

• In fall, they harvested crops and hunted for foods to preserve and keep for the winter.

• Animal skins (deerskin) were used for clothing.

• Shelter was made from materials around them.

Native peoples of the past farmed, hunted, and fished. They made homes using natural resources. They used animal skins for clothing.

Today, most native peoples live like other Americans. Their cultures have changed over time.

INDIANS ADAPT TO ENVIRONMENT FOR FOOD, CLOTHING SHELTER

Virginia’s American Indians worked with the climate and their environment to meet their basic wants.

Many American Indians lived in towns situated along the rivers, which made for good farming, good fishing, and easy travel.
Werowocomoco was a large Indian town located on the York River, used by Indian leaders for several hundred years before the English settlers came. It was the headquarters of the leader, Powhatan, in 1607.

Jamestown became the first permanent English settlement in North America. Archaeologists have discovered the site of the original fort.

The recovered artifacts give archaeologists clues about the interactions of English, Africans, and Indians in early Virginia.

American Indians, who trace their ancestry family history back to before 1607, continue to live in all parts of Virginia today.

- Virginia Indians live and work as modern Americans.
- Many practice ancient traditions and crafts while incorporating new customs over time.
- The current state-recognized tribes are located in regions throughout Virginia.

The tribes maintain tribal museums and lands on which they hold public festivals called powwows.

- The powwow is a way of teaching American Indians and visitors about their culture, past and present.

Today, Virginia Indians maintain their strong cultural heritage through drumming, singing, dance, art, jewelry, clothing, crafts, pottery, and storytelling.

Virginia Indians contribute to American society as active citizens who vote, hold office, and work in communities.
